

DO NOT OPEN

Emails that look like this are a SCAM — even when they come from a dentist or practice we know

The sender's account has been hacked — the email really is from their address. The link installs software that lets criminals control our computers behind a fake "Windows Update" screen. The web address changes every time (often ending in .vu) and it usually asks you to open it "on your Desktop or Windows Laptop" — that line is the giveaway. Some arrive at odd hours (one at 3:41am) but many arrive in business hours, so a normal-looking time is not reassurance.

1. Don't click

Don't open the link "just to see". Looking is how it starts.

2. Phone the sender

Ring them on their usual number: "Did you send this?"
Never check by replying — the hacker answers their email.

3. Clicked it?

Unplug the computer from the network and tell the practice owner/manager IMMEDIATELY. No blame — but minutes matter.
